Winegrowing

tradition
in Burgundy...

The Auvigue family has been working its vineyard for generations, closely following traditional Burgundy methods.

"Les Cbailloux" à Pouilly

The grapes come from family estates or are carefully selected from the best areas of the Pouilly-Fuissé, St Véran and Mâcon appellations.

Soil work

To allow each piece of land to remain true to itself, Jean-Pierre and Michel Auvigue always adapt the vinification process to the climate. So the climates of "La Frairie", "Les Chailloux" or "les Crays" in the Pouilly-Fuissé region are allowed to give their very best.

...vinification divided into plots of land...

"La Frairie" à Solutré

Most of the appellations use casks made of oak from French forests to make their wines. The wines from these appellations are lightly filtered before being bottled to retain all the elements they need to develop.

...warmth and intimacy

Jean-Pierre and Michel Auvigue in tasting

sold both in France and overseas,
it has managed to retain the intimacy and warmth which made its reputation.

Over time, Jean-Pierre and Michel Auvigue have managed to take full advantage of the fruits of the wonderful land of the Mâcon region.
